

A STUDY OF THE USE OF PARALLELISM IN THE NOVEL
A TALE OF TWO CITIES BY CHARLES DICKENS

PhD DISSERTATION

SU KHINE OO

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH
UNIVERSITY OF YANGON MYANMAR

MARCH 2017

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Firstly, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Dr. Myo Myint, Chairman of the National Education Policy Commission, for the continuous support of my PhD study and related research, for his patience and for sharing his vast knowledge. His guidance helped me in doing research and writing of this thesis. His insightful comments and hard questions incited me to think critically and analytically. He had always enlightened me about professional skills and research mindedness which helped develop my career as a teacher and a researcher.

Secondly, my sincere thanks go to Dr. Naw Ju Paw, Professor and Head of English Department, who gave me a chance to do a PhD research and willingly shared her great knowledge of Christian norms and values in interpreting some Dickens' writing. Her paper for Myanmar Arts and Science was of enormous help in initiating my research.

Thirdly, I am very grateful to Daw Khin Lay Myint, Professor (Retired), Department of English, Yangon University whose guidance, motherly kindness and massive support gave me insights into literature and its esthetic value. In addition, her immense knowledge of history of English literature inspired me to do research on literature.

My gratitude goes to my external examiner Dr. Aye Aye Khine, Pro-Rector of West Yangon University who examined my thesis very thoroughly and pointed out the flaws, weaknesses, shortcomings and loop-holes in my research and enables me to finally come up with a creditable thesis.

I would like to record my thanks for Dr. Khin Mar Wai, Dr. Wai Wai Nyunt, Dr. Aye Aye Khine, Dr. May San Ye and Dr. Thi Thi Tun who shared their great knowledge of literature, linguistics and pedagogy in my PhD Preliminary class. Their patience and guidance were initiative to do my PhD thesis.

I am also indebted to my eternal-cheerleader, Dr. Poe Poe, Director of National Center for English Language, who took great pains in supervising my thesis, spending her precious time even though she was strenuously busy with administrative and pedagogical tasks. Moreover, she endlessly encouraged me to be-critical and research-minded in doing my thesis and taught me not only professional skills but also life skills. I could not have finished this thesis without her kindness and support.

I would also like to acknowledge my gratitude to PhD Steering Committee members for giving me positive criticism, constructive comments, valuable guidance and strong motivation to carry out my thesis. I could improve my thesis after every credit seminar because of the kind help and support of the PhD Steering Committee members.

My heartfelt thanks are also due to Daw Ning Khan Cing, Lecturer, Department of English, University of Dagon, who introduced me to Saya Saw Ka Lo Htoo, Librarian, Myanmar Institute of Theology (MIT). I had a special chance to use the library of MIT and read the reference books from MIT for the theory used in my thesis and discuss the basic concept of Christianity with him.

I would like to express my special thanks to Daw Htu Yar, Lecturer, Department of Anthropology, Mandalay University for introducing me to Saya Hkamung Zau Ba, Evangelist, Founder and Senior Pastor of Council of Governments (World Mission) and Chairman of Myanmar Pentecostal Fellowship. As he is a pastor in Kachin Baptist Church teaching the Bible, he could share his knowledge of the use of parallelism in biblical writing. He also provided me some reference books. Being a well-versed person, he helped me with Dickens' style of writing and interpretation of the underlying meaning in A Tale of Two Cities in relation to the Bible.

In addition, my sincere thanks go to Daw Myint Myint San, Professor and Head of English Department, Hpa-an University, who understood my difficulties and exempted me from department duties. She gave me valuable advice concerning my thesis and social life. Her words of wisdom helped me overcome difficulties especially when I was away from home. She encouraged me not only to carry on doing my thesis but also to take part in paper reading sessions. I must admit that I could finish my thesis in time due to her kindness, love and support.

I would like to express my special thanks to all my colleagues at the Department of English, Yangon University and Hpa-an University who shared my duties and responsibilities while I was on leave before credit seminars and on vacation before the final thesis defence.

I am deeply thankful to Dr. Thida Shwe, Associate Professor, Department of Geography, Hpa-an University and Dr. Thet Thet Hlaing, Lecturer, Department of Computer Science, Yangon University for helping me with graphs in Microsoft Excel. I could deal with graphs, tables and formulas because of their guidance, patience and kindness.

I would like to record my thanks to Saw Lar Ku and Daw Than Than Htay who provided me and my students with place to stay and food to eat while I was in charge of organizing 3R's (reading, writing and arithmetic) – the basic skills-oriented education program in a remote village called Kawt Lar in Karen State. With their support, I could do my research outside my duty hours.

I am also grateful to all my teachers whose teaching and words of wisdom influenced me. I could learn a lot from all my teachers, especially English teachers of East Yangon University, Yangon University and Regional Centre for English Language (RELC).

I owe a great debt of gratitude to Dr. Thandar Cho (Consultant Physician), Medical Officers and nurses of Victoria Hospital and OSC Hospital who took great care of me when I was at the hospital. Their professionalism, patience and guidance helped me recover quickly.

Lastly, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my father and mother who gave me inspiration and motivation to be able to finish my thesis. Their love is a shot of courage for me to resist any kind of difficulties and hardships. Their physical, mental and financial supports are of crucial to the completion of this thesis.